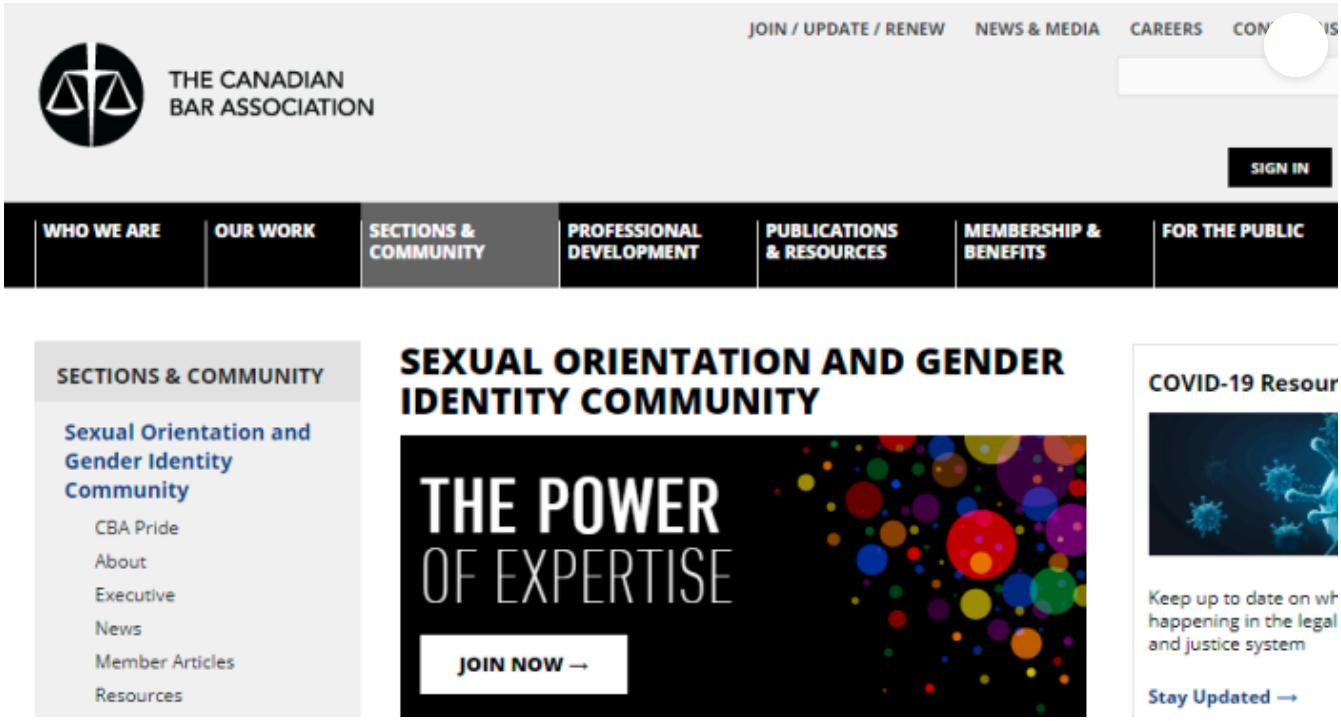
B.C. lawyer honoured for role in legal fight to eliminate discrimination against LGBTQ2SI+ community

According to the publication: Canadian Lawyer, working tirelessly to upend tradition and social norms is worthy of an honourable mention. Never mind the consequences of that work.

Trans Activist Pushing Gender-Neutral Language

An interesting point about the struggle for “equal” rights. The more victories you achieve, only the less and less important issues remain. Here, “Morgane” Oger goes on CBC to talk about removing references involving gender from BC Courts. Yes, that’s where we are. Keep in mind, this person wanted to establish a doxing website, took a Christian to the cleaners for telling the truth, and got Vancouver Rape Relief defunded for not admitting men. Yes, Oger felt the need to push for an ideology at the expense of women.

As bad as Oger is, we need to look at the bigger picture: the SOGI agenda is being implemented into the Courts, with the deliberate aim of corrupting them. The institutional rot is not limited to a few activists seeking attention. Oger is a symptom of a much larger problem.



LEADER. EDUCATOR. ADVOCATE.

The CBA Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity Community Section (SOGIC) aims to:

-Address the needs and concerns of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and two-spirited members within the CBA

–Provide a forum for the exchange of information, ideas and action on legal issues relating to sexual orientation and gender identity

-Encourage lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and two-spirited lawyers to actively participate in the CBA's work

-Develop and provide continuing legal education and other professional development programs on legal issues relating to sexual orientation and gender identity

-Develop member services relevant to lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and two-spirited CBA members

OUR WORK

SOGIC is a founding member of the International Lesbian and Gay Law Association. We liaise with lesbian and gay law groups in the United States, the United Kingdom and Israel, among others. Our members frequently attend the Nstrong>National Lesbian and Gay Law Association's (NLGLA) Lavender Law conferences. The NLGLA is affiliated with the American Bar Association.

The Canadian Bar Association (CBA) has its own SOGI (sexual orientation and gender identity) section within it. Far from being limited, it has Provincial and International partners. Specifically, they list the U.S., U.K. and Israel.

This is far more coordinated than some activists and sympathetic media. The major goal is to get SOGI policies implemented into law. These are people trying to circumvent the legislative process.

One such person is Barbara Findlay, who refuses to spell her name with capital letters as an act of defiance. This spelling wasn't for any real reason, just to cause friction. The publisher, Canadian Lawyer, did an article which lists several accomplishments she had over the years.

- Changing definition of marriage
- Putting 2 women on a birth certificate (2 mothers)
- Forcing centers to host gay "weddings"
- Forcing rape centers to accept tran-volunteers
- Getting sex change surgery for inmates
- Putting biologically male inmates in women's prisons

Recently, Findlay was successful in getting a B.C. father's rights removed, as he tried to prevent his daughter from transitioning into a boy. Never mind the high regret and suicide rate among trans-children. The agenda had to go ahead.

Forcing the Knights of Columbus Center to host a lesbian "wedding" is an interesting one. Remember: the main rallying cry when changing the definition of marriage was that it wouldn't impose on others. Turns out, that was a lie. There was every intention of imposing — later on.

Findlay and Oger line up ideologically when it comes to Vancouver Rape Relief. Findlay tried to force it to accept trans-volunteers, and Oger got it defunded for only accepting biological women as victims.

> The society also notes that findlay founded the CBABC Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity Community (SOGIC) section and co-founded the CBA National SOGIC federation. In BC, SOGIC is now a community of over 215 LGBTQ2SI+ lawyers, law students and judges.

Findlay isn't just a bystander. She founded the BC Branch of SOGI lawyers, and co-founded the National Federation. She has been involved in establishing the infrastructure.

The Canadian Bar Association also has an overtly anti-white agenda. They explicitly ask Trudeau to put more "BIPOC" (black, indigenous, people of colour), members onto the bench. Apparently whites can't be trusted to understand the lived experience of others, especially when non-whites have such high crime rates.

The CBA has also written the Government on a variety of issues, including: conversion therapy, gay blood donation ban, banning intersex surgery decisions by parents, etc… This reads like it was written by EGALE or some other gay rights group.

> C. A specific online hate remedy [Page 8]
> While existing remedies not specifically addressed to the internet – section 12 of the CHRA, for instance – may be available to address online hate, we recommend adding a remedy specific to the internet. This would remove uncertainty and avoid litigation about the meaning of more generic legislation. It could also serve as a warning with an educational and preventive purpose. The government should not miss this opportunity.
> A revised civil remedy needs to be directed not only against inciters, but also against publishers, including internet platforms. Internet providers should not have civil immunity for the material on their platforms.
> Rather than removing liability of internet providers from individual defamation suits, we recommend that the Tribunal have legislated power to make legally binding orders on internet providers.
> The repealed section 13 of the CHRA excluded internet providers from its ambit:
> (3) For the purposes of this section, no owner or operator of a telecommunication undertaking communicates or causes to be communicated any matter described in subsection (1) by reason only that the facilities of a telecommunication undertaking owned or operated by that person are used by other persons for the transmission of that matter.
> A re-enacted section 13 should expressly say the exact opposite: when an internet > provider allows a person to use their services, the provider is communicating what the person posts on the provider's platform.

The CBA explicitly supports hate speech laws. Typically, lawyers argue that people should have more freedoms and more rights. But here, they are quite okay with stripping away those rights, and putting the screws to internet providers, in the name of fighting hate.

Now, calling for less whites to be put on benches should be seen as an act of hate speech, right? No, there are a few groups it's perfectly legal to discriminate against.

If the CBA were truly committed to open and honest discussion on controversial topics, that point of view may be understood. However, it functions as an activist group.

These are the people who have infiltrated our legal system, and are covertly (and not covertly) trying to remake society. Equality for all is a great talking point, but that isn't really the goal.

It's true that CBA-SOGIC may not speak for all members, and likely doesn't, but they act as if they do.

Here’s why they’re gonna get away with removing references involving gender from BC courts. It’s right in the Interpretation Act, and has been for a very long time.

“Use of forms and words

28 (2) Gender specific terms include both genders and include corporations.

(3) In an enactment words in the singular include the plural, and words in the plural include the singular.”

All enactments regulate PERSONS. And a person is defined in the Interpretation Act as follows:

“person” includes a corporation, partnership or party, and the personal or other legal representatives of a person to whom the context can apply according to law;”

Do you see an individual anywhere on that list?

Did you know that in B.C. if you don’t specifically deny corporate status under court rule 3-7(10), it is admitted and assumed that you are a corporation rather than an individual with absolute rights?

Under the Canadian Bill of Rights, S.C. 1960, c. 44, reprinted R.S.C. 1985, App. III, “the right of the individual” extend to natural persons only, and not to corporations. R. v. Colgate-Palmolive Ltd. (1972), 8 C.C.C. (2d) 40 (Ont.Co.Ct.).

Section 15(1) of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms provides that “Every individual is equal before and under the law…” It has been ruled that Charter equality rights extend only to natural persons. Parkdale Hotel Ltd. v. Attorney-General of Canada. (1986), 1 F.T.R. 190 (F.C.T.D.)
